Overview
Perioperative Services are undergoing dramatic change. Clinical processes are inherently complex and manufacturing based approaches to manage operating rooms may not be appropriate for certain delivery processes in the perioperative setting. Key to success is creating a culture where anesthesia providers, surgeons, interventionalists and nursing are engaged and committed to the organization's success. This seminar will provide all Perioperative leaders the tools and insight to understand complex theories, gain an appreciation of the nuances of creating change in dysfunctional cultures, examine systems thinking as applied to the operating room management, discuss real-world applications and explore the application of machine learning to the systems of tomorrow.

Statement of Need
Through presentations and interactive learning sessions with the nation's foremost leaders in complex management, participants will develop the tools necessary to return to their home medical centers, ambulatory surgery centers, surgical and anesthesia practices to enact immediate change. Thought leaders in anesthesiology, surgical subspecialties, interventional radiology, and health systems management will share their experiences from the front lines of the transformation taking place in our medical system. Presentations from the Association of Anesthesia Clinical Director (AACD), the Society of Non-OR Intervention and Anesthesia (SONORIA), and the International Consortium in Operating Room Management Education and Training (iCORMET) will serve as the foundation for this ground-breaking educational experience.

Target Audience
This summit is designed for the anesthesia clinical director, medical director of the operating room (OR), perioperative service director, nursing executive, nursing director, chief operating officer, vice president of operations, surgeon who values throughput and incentive-structuring, operating manager for materials and information technology, anesthesiologists/surgeons/nurses who work in the operating room (OR) environment and are interested in greater understanding of the complexities of operating room (OR) management.

Objectives
At the conclusion of this activity, participants should be able to:
- Define complex adaptive systems.
- Recognize the nuances of leading change in dysfunctional cultures.
- Leverage predictive analytics to create value within health care systems.
- Expand the focus of the perioperative processes to the preoperative setting.
- Identify the present state and limitations of operating room management.

Accreditation and Designation Statements

This activity has been planned and implemented in accordance with the accreditation requirements and policies of the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) through the joint providership of the American Society of Anesthesiologists and the Association of Anesthesia Clinical Director. The American Society of Anesthesiologists is accredited by the ACCME to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The American Society of Anesthesiologists designates this live activity for a maximum of 14.75 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

In order to receive CME credit, participants must sign-in to the ASA Education Center, review the CME information and complete the evaluation. Further instructions will be emailed to each participant immediately prior to and after the activity.

DISCLOSURE FOR CONTRIBUTORS AND STAFF

Resolution of Conflicts of Interest:

The American Society of Anesthesiologists remains strongly committed to providing the best available evidence-based clinical information to participants of this educational activity and requires an open disclosure of any potential conflict of interest identified by our faculty members. It is not the intent of the American Society of Anesthesiologists to eliminate all situations of potential conflict of interest, but rather to enable those who are working with the American Society of Anesthesiologists to recognize situations that may be subject to question by others. All disclosed conflicts of interest are reviewed by the educational activity course director/chair to ensure that such situations are properly evaluated and, if necessary, resolved. The American Society of Anesthesiologists educational standards pertaining to conflict of interest are intended to maintain the professional autonomy of the clinical experts inherent in promoting a balanced presentation of science. Through our review process, all American Society of Anesthesiologists CME activities are ensured of independent, objective, scientifically balanced presentations of information. Disclosure of any or no relationships will be made available for all educational activities.
